INTO THE CLOUDS

Check-in your kids at Gram's this June holiday as they take off on an educational flight through exciting workshops. Designed around the theme of soaring into the sky, the centre is rolling out classes with crafts, storytelling and sensorial experiences from 8th to 25th June. For ages 4 to 6, sign up for any two workshops and get free admission to an art-based workshop.

KAWAII DOGGY

Singapore's cute meter has definitely been bumped up after the opening of the adorable Pompompurin Café. From the wallpaper to the food and cutlery, the lovable retriever is replicated in various charmingly Instagrammable forms. The themed eatery is the first in Southeast Asia, and serves up a menu of comforting café fare. The big bonus: diners can bring home a free Pompompurin mug when they order select dishes.

Located at Orchard Central.

GOING PLACES

The must-have companion for urban parents on the move, the versatile Babyzen YOYO+ is compact enough to fit in overhead cabin compartments. For new-borns, it can be configured as a cosy rear-facing buggy with car seat adapters, and transformed into a stylish stroller when they outgrow it. The stroller also boasts a spacious storage basket, washable fabrics, rain covers and extendable canopies with UPF 50+ sun protection.

Available at Mothercare, Motherswork and First Few Years.

MINI CITY

Be it a pilot, a surgeon, a fashion model, a chef or a CSI detective, KidZania offers the little ones a chance to live out their dream jobs. Modelled after a real city, the indoor edutainment centre hosts fun role-playing activities that will boost your child's confidence and develop their social skills and life skills, such as managing finances, and gain greater awareness about social values.

A-OKAY

It's all sunny days with PUMA's cheery new Sesame Street collection. Designed for kids aged one to 12, the footwear features PUMA's iconic designs with a playfully vibrant touch. The Suede line is plastered with images of beloved characters like Elmo, Cookie Monster, Oscar the Grouch, and best pals Bert and Ernie, while the classic ST Runner is given a kooky twist with googly eyes.

Available at Jay Gee, Bata and PUMA retail stores.
